THE ZACHARY REUNION.

Third Annual Gathering Was Held at Cashier's, N. C.

Editor Keowee Courier: With your permission I will give you a sketch of our trip to the third reunion of the Zachary family, which was held at Cashier's, N. C., on August 26th.

On the 23d we had an early start, which enabled us to make a drive of thirty-five miles, bringing us to Cheochee church, near downtown, and we naturally turned aside to spend the night with our friend, Dock Shepard. We were glad to find him fully recovered from his severe illness of a year ago. On the following morning we made our way up the mountains.

While crossing the Old Pickens and Chattooga road our mind ran back to our mother, and we thought of her as a bride, traveling over the same road horseback, about seventy years ago. Imagine a bride's trousseau of this day and time packed in a pair of saddlebags! The party started from below Anderson Court House and made the trip to Cashier's, N. C., in two days, a distance of eighty miles.

We spent our second night with our kinsman, Will Hinkle, and his aged mother, Matilda Hinkle, aged eighty-three years—the only survivor of the original Zachary family. She is in fine health and as spry as most women of fifty. They live in Bohemia, where you have a splendid view of the Hog-Back mountain.

After a drive of eight miles we arrived in the beautiful valley of Cashier's, where we found everybody getting ready for the reunion on Saturday, the 26th. This valley lies just at the foot of the Blue Ridge proper. The dividing of the waters on the east side is "Chimney Top," from which, it is said, you can see into four States. On the west looms up old "Whiteside," which stands several thousand feet above sea level. The valley is well watered with creeks, branches and springs of the coldest water in the whole mountain section. There is not a well in the valley. It seems to be the home of the dahlia. Every home has the walks lined with these flowers, of all colors.

On the 26th, the day of the reunion, it was cloudy and we had some rain, but notwithstanding the rain the people commenced coming in at an early hour, and by 11 o'clock were assembled at the Methodist church, where the exercises were to be held. The church was packed to its utmost capacity, with a goodly number outside. At 11:30 the house was called to order by the chairman, J. R. Zachary, and the exercises were begun by singing the old familiar hymn "How Firm a Foundation," after which Rev. Hawkins offered a most earnest and appropriate prayer. The speaker not being present, the chairman gave a short talk, followed by Ralph H. Zachary and T. R. Zachary. Both were good. T. R. Zachary is treasurer, and spoke along the line of the finances of the association, but had no trouble in collecting the amount asked for in thirty minutes. After the collection we adjourned for dinner, which was bountiful beyond description. I find the ladies of the mountains are as good cooks as one will find anywhere. The evening services were short and most of the time was taken up in renewing acquaintances and a general good time. There were registered seventy-five of the connection. In two years there have been seven monuments placed to deceased members or connections of the Zachary family, and the association does not intend to stop until all of the old family graves are marked. The next will be the Logan Allison and wife, she being the ninth child of Col. John Zachary.

We hope that the connection in this county will read this and commence now to get ready to attend the next reunion, which will be held on the last Saturday in August, 1912. For their benefit I will say the association will have arrangements for a camping ground by that time.

Deadly Work of Dynamite.

Copper Hill, Tenn., Oct. 5.—Mrs. Steve Loftus was instantly killed. Mrs. R. A. Barclay was fatally injured and Mrs. C. A. Jarrard was badly hurt when five sticks of dynamite today exploded and wrecked the home of R. A. Barclay, of this place. It is stated that workmen who had been blasting a well on the place had left the dynamite in the house, and in some way it was thrown into the fireplace. The Barclay family had just moved into the house, and papers and trash were lighted in the grate where dynamite had been thrown.

Farmers, mechanics, railroaders, laborers rely on Dr. Thomas' Eclectic Oil. Takes the sting out of cuts, burns or bruises at once. Pain cannot stay where it is used.

Selection of Seed Corn.

If one desires to improve his seed corn for another year the time to do it is before the present crop is gathered. When a person follows the common practice of securing his seed from the barn, large ears are invariably selected, and it cannot be told at that time whether the ears are large due to breeding, or whether they have been produced on stalks which have been favored with an undue amount of fertilizer or distance. If seed are selected which have been grown under the latter conditions, they are not apt to produce large ears another year unless given a rather heavy application of fertilizer or more distance than necessary. Therefore, the seed ears should be selected from stalks which have grown under average conditions.

To make this selection properly, it must first be decided which portion of the field represents as near as possible the average soil conditions of the farm. Then from blocky and healthy stalks, which have not been favored with any undue amount of distance or richness in the soil, the seed ears should be gathered. Before breaking the ears from the stalks, one should ascertain their size as near as possible. This can be done by carefully examining them with the hand, and if they seem to be of good size and well filled out at the tip they should be pulled. If the corn should be a prolific variety, it does not matter whether the top or bottom ear is selected so long as a good one is secured.

After having selected about twice as many ears as will be necessary for seed, all of them should be stored in a place free from mice and weevils. A few days prior to planting time, all of the ears should be shucked and only the best ones retained for planting. It is well to bear in mind that all seed ears should be free from mixture, heavy, of good size, have deep grains, well filled butts and tips, uniform kernels, and narrow spaces between the rows of grains, as the above points are conducive to larger yields and have a tendency to be reproduced when planted.

Assistant Professor of Agronomy.

A Medicine that Gives Confidence is Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. Mrs. T. J. Adams, 522 N. Kansas avenue, Columbus, Kans., writes: "For a number of years my children have been subject to coughs and colds. I used Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and found that it cured their coughs and colds, so I keep it in the house all the time." Refuse substitutes.

Has Read Bible 200 Times.

In excellent health and spirits, Mrs. Sarah Harty, of Ithica, N. Y., recently celebrated her ninety-first birthday. One of the features of the day to her was the fact that she had completed reading the Bible through for the 260th time.

For forty years she had been a staunch member of the State Street Methodist Episcopal church, Ithica, and her greatest pleasure has been to read the Bible in that church.

Mrs. Harty is the sole survivor of a family of eight, and has outlived her husband and two sons. No immediate relatives are alive. Mrs. Harty's sight, hearing and mentality are unimpaired.

Ravages of the Army Worm.

Belton, Oct. 5.—The army worm is invading the farming section around Belton in countless millions. The leaves of the cotton plants have been completely stripped, and in a great many cases the reports indicate that the young, tender bolls have been badly damaged, this, together with 9½ cents cotton makes the outlook for the farmer and merchant very discouraging, indeed. There has been no effort to check the ravages of the army worm, as it comes and "passes like a ship in the night."
